Dear Ms. Henney, EXECUTIVE SECRETARIAT

As Commissioner of the Food & Drug Administration, we challenge you to protect the health of the American public by judiciously monitoring the development of genetic engineering of foods.

We take pride in living in a democracy and have the freedom to choose the foods we eat. We have read research papers about the risks and dangers of genetically altered foods for animals and humans, and choose not to consume such foods. If such foods are brought to market and sold, it is essential that they be labeled clearly as should only foods that may be irradiated.

Our children and grandchildren deserve to live in a country that offers them healthful and safe food products to enjoy. They will be the leaders of the 21st century, We represent them now, and demand the right to be intelligently informed in order to decide what food choices to make.

Thank you,

Mr. & Mrs. P. Stenberg
and Family

P.S. Please respond.
